New Adventures of the Fantastic Four

By Caitlin Schwarts, OTAS

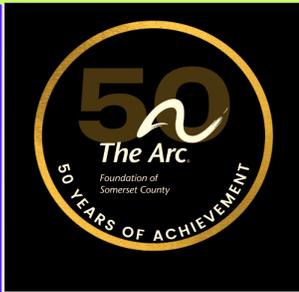

Today at the Manville library Jayne, Charlie, and Vicky participated in yoga with Jane to prepare for the busy day ahead. Jayne was able to return the country music CD's she borrowed the week before. She said that she enjoyed them! Next up was a nail-biting game of dominos! All three of our competitors played their best, but it was Jayne who came out on top.

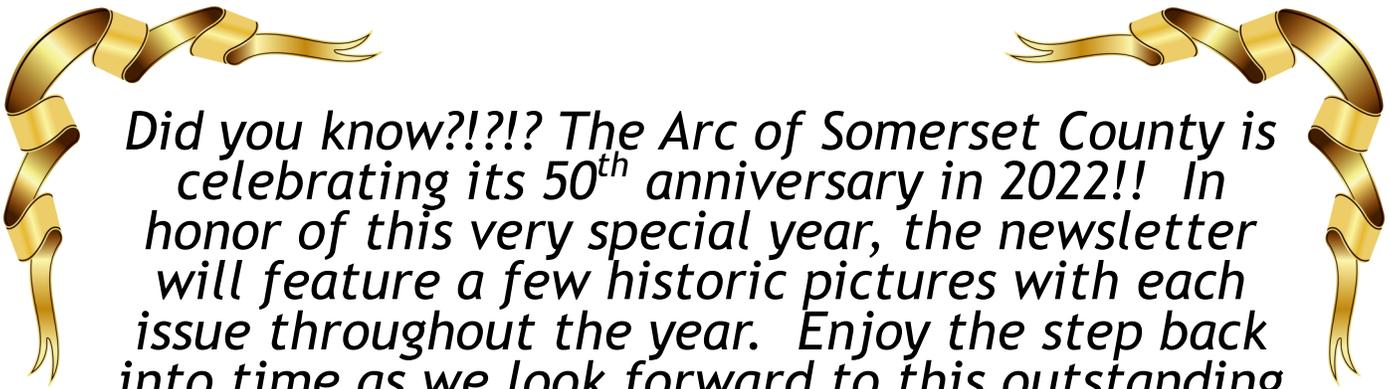

By Nicole Reynolds, OTS

Today, Gerry and Charles enjoyed spending time at the library learning about some of their favorite topics, which included motorcycles for Charles and Led Zeppelin for Gerry. Thanks to the wonderful staff at the library, they were also able to learn fascinating facts about the history of money in the United States. Everyone even won some fun money-themed prizes! It was a relaxing day filled with learning and excitement!

Adventures in Reading

By Mary Scibelli

One of the poems we took turn reading last week was “I’ve turned into a carrot.” We checked for our arms and legs as well as making sure we didn’t have orange bodies and green hair as we read through the poem. We talked about other vegetables we like to eat. Kamala said that rabbits like to eat carrots and the carrot in the poem had to run away before he was eaten by the rabbit. We also read the poem “Mother Doesn’t Want a Dog” and talked about all of the different animals that would make a great pets. We agreed that a fish would make a great pet.

Computer Class

By Mary Scibelli

Everyone is busy humming along at the Jill Court Computer class. The great thing about computers is that each person can work independently on their specific interest. Some people are interested in looking at pictures of animals, others like to practice their eye hand coordination skills, and others take the opportunity to practice their typing and spelling skills. The latest computer activity has been to look at a picture and type words and sentences about the picture and what it makes you think about. When Kathy F looked at a picture of a rainy day, she typed "blowing in the wind." Diana typed the words "lighthouse," "tent," "sailboat" and "seashell" when she looked at a summer themed picture, while Steve B typed "kite," "ballpen" and "grass." Barbara P created and typed her own sentences about the picture. She typed "I like light houses. A buoy is in the ocean. I caught a fish with the T. R. S. in August. My sister Linda use to have a little boat." Stay tuned next time for news from the Camplain Road Computer Class!
